It has been with a tender joy that we have met some of the visitors who have come to Belleau seeking the graves of their boys. Of course it is possible for only a small number to make this long pllgrimage. Often we wish it were cossible for the multitudes who are in the homeland to see the beautiful place where their boys are now resting. Many visitors have not only placed flowers upon the graves of their own dead but have sought out the graves of other boys whose friends were not so fortunate and gained his consciousness.
